- Economical, rapid and customer-specific solutions for complex packaging jobs.
- Everything from a single source: from standard machines to customized equipment.

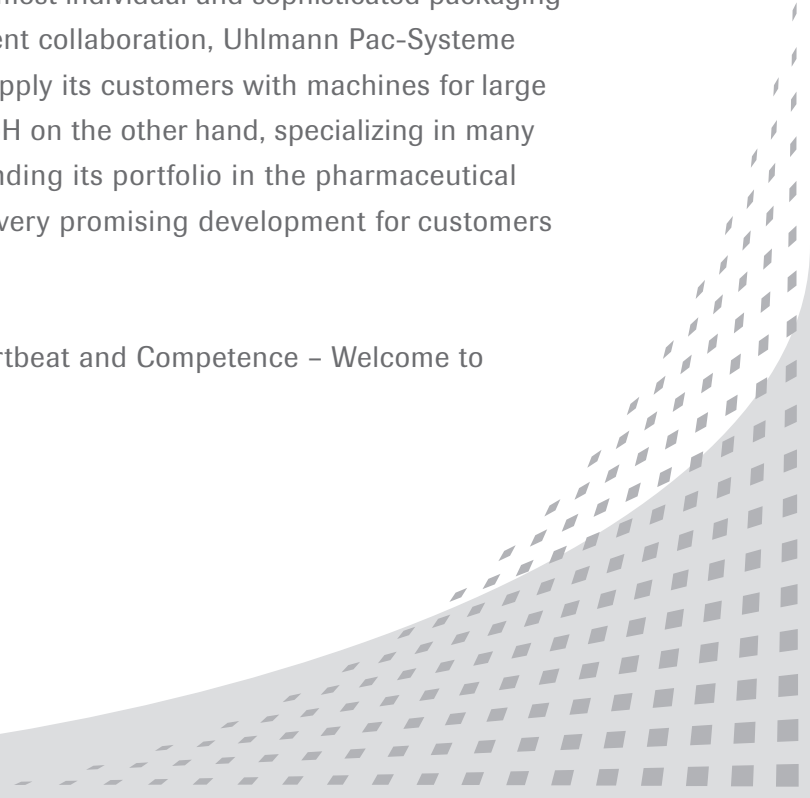

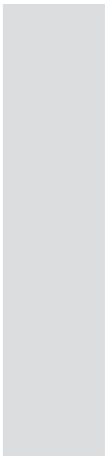

WHEN THE BEST IN THE INDUSTRY JOIN FORCES.

Uhlmann Pac-Systeme GmbH & Co. KG has for many years been the market leader in the field of blister packaging systems for the pharmaceutical industry. At the same time, KOCH Pac-Systeme GmbH has long been serving the packaging industry by means of innovative developments in the customized blister packaging segment for the consumer, pharmaceutical and health care sectors. For that reason it was only a logical step for the two companies to merge and for KOCH Pac-Systeme GmbH to become a subsidiary of Uhlmann.

High quality standards in development, production and service form the basis for both companies to create the most individual and sophisticated packaging solutions. As a result of the current collaboration, Uhlmann Pac-Systeme GmbH & Co. KG can now also supply its customers with machines for large blisters. KOCH Pac-Systeme GmbH on the other hand, specializing in many customized applications, is extending its portfolio in the pharmaceutical sector. A perfect synergy, and a very promising development for customers of Uhlmann and KOCH alike.

Welcome to packaging with Heartbeat and Competence – Welcome to Uhlmann and KOCH.

UHLMANN

The Heartbeat of Pharma Packaging

With its headquarters in Laupheim, and global subsidiaries and branch offices in the USA, the UK, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, China, Singapore and Brazil, Uhlmann is a medium-sized family firm with around 1,100 employees. This figure has risen to 1,350 as a result of the merger with KOCH.

As a market leader, the company has long set standards and trends in the area of pharmaceutical blister packaging. Whether blister machines, cartoning machines, toploaders or end-of-line packaging systems, the machines exclusively developed for the pharmaceutical industry are productive and economical – for large and small batches alike, and for regional specifications. Whether in tablet, ampoule, syringe or special form, Uhlmann has kept the packaging technology market moving for over five decades, proving impetus in the pharmaceutical industry. Uhlmann is a flexible and adaptable company, and is well aware of its responsibilities. Customer Support & Services comprise a comprehensive range of services associated with pharmaceutical packaging. From format and spare parts, 24-hour service and validation, through to training and production support. Particularly as a result of its competence in the field of customized machine building, KOCH Pac-Systeme GmbH offers the ideal complement to the existing range of machines.
